DINING

From the City to the Shore: NYC Favorites in the Hamptons

Crazy Pizza, SoHo - This high-energy Italian spot brings its signature thin-crust yeast-free pizzas and vibrant "Pizza Spinning" shows from Lafayette Street to a stylish new outpost in East Hampton.

Bagatelle, Meatpacking District - Known for its lively brunch scene and French Mediterranean flair, this Manhattan staple brings its chic, upbeat energy and coastal cuisine

Camp Rubirosa, Nolita - A summer "pop-up" version of the legendary Mulberry Street favorite, serving up their famous tie-dye pizzas and family-style Italian classics in a rustic East Hampton setting.

Il Buco Vita, NoHo - Bringing the soul of the Bond Street original to Amagansett, this location combines a curated home goods boutique with a café and alimentari focused on Mediterranean flavors.

Sant Ambroeus, West Village & Upper East Side - The epitome of Milanese sophistication, this iconic café and restaurant offers its celebrated espresso, pastries, and elegant Italian plates in both Southampton and East Hampton.

La Goulue, Upper East Side - A quintessential French bistro known for its sophisticated crowd and classic steak frites, recreating its polished Parisian atmosphere at La Goulue Sur Mer in Southampton.

Alba Spiaggia, Chelsea - Following its success in the city, this Italian concept brings wood-fired coastal cuisine and a "summer holiday" vibe to the waterfront at the Montauk Yacht Club.

Donohue's Steak House, Upper East Side - A legendary Lexington Avenue institution, this classic American steakhouse brings its old-school charm and straightforward, quality cuts to a seasonal home in the Hamptons.

A Love Letter to NoMad Dining

Founded by Atomix alumni Cody Mao and Samuel Park, 28 Nomad is a soulful 36-seat sanctuary celebrating the duo's passion for New York's dining culture. Chef Mao blends childhood foraging memories from Hunan with refined techniques to craft seasonal standouts like Scallop Wellington and sesame cold noodles with firefly squid. This culinary innovation is anchored by Park's dedication to jeong, a Korean philosophy of deep communal hospitality expressed through a curated sool list and inventive cocktails. From rice-stuffed chicken wings to hand-drawn doodles on takeout boxes, every detail at 28 Nomad reflects a playful, intentional, and warm partnership.

A Taste of History Reclaimed

The legendary Katz's Delicatessen is peeling back the curtain on a long-lost chapter of its storied past. After nearly eight decades of serving as a massive walk-in refrigerator, the Ludlow Room has officially reopened its doors to the public. This 68-seat dining area was originally shuttered in 1949 to accommodate the deli's post-war boom in pastrami and brisket demand. Now, this secret slice of New York history is once again welcoming guests, offering a nostalgic atmosphere that hasn't been experienced by diners in 75 years.

DRINKS

Hidden Peruvian Martinin Lab

Looking for the ultimate under-the-radar spot for your next girls' night out or date night? Sub-Mission, a hidden Manhattan speakeasy just launched an incredible new menu centered entirely around martinis and wagyu, and it deserves a spot at the top of your list. The venue features a vibrant back room filled with live music and lush, jungle-chic vibes reminiscent of Madrid's famous Amazónico. On the menu, you will find incredibly creative cocktails alongside flawlessly executed Peruvian-fusion wagyu bites. The absolute standouts are the wagyu nigiri and the crispy nori tacos. It is the perfect blend of high-end flavor and unmatched atmosphere that New York foodies need to experience immediately.

FATHER'S DAY

Catch a Ballgame: Check the schedule for a home game at Yankee Stadium in the Bronx or Citi Field in Queens.

Play a Round of Virtual Golf: Head to a modern indoor golf lounge like Five Iron Golf (multiple Manhattan locations) to play simulated world-class courses while enjoying a full.

Indulge in a Classic Steakhouse Dinner: Book a table at an iconic NYC institution like Peter Luger in Brooklyn, Keens Chophouse in Midtown, or Delmonico's downtown for a massive, traditional steak dinner.

Visit a Craft Brewery: Spend the afternoon sampling local flights, playing lawn games, and hanging out at the Brooklyn Brewery taproom in Williamsburg, or explore the breweries in Long Island City.

Stroll the New York Transit Museum: Located in a decommissioned 1936 subway station in Downtown Brooklyn, this museum is filled with vintage subway cars and historical memorabilia that history-loving dads will obsess over.

Whether you seek hidden gems, immersive local adventures, or seamless indulgence, Gail ensures every detail is perfectly tailored. Life's too short for tourist traps, let every moment of your journey be extraordinary.

- Amalfi Coast, Italy - June is widely considered the goldilocks month for the Amalfi Coast. The Mediterranean is finally warm enough for swimming, the legendary lemon groves are in full bloom, and the sheer cliffs are draped in purple bougainvillea. You get the glamorous "La Dolce Vita" atmosphere and full ferry schedules without the gridlock traffic of mid-summer.

- Bali, Indonesia - While much of Southeast Asia begins its monsoon season in June, Bali enters its prime dry season. This is the best time for outdoor adventures and beach days, as the humidity drops and the skies remain a consistent, brilliant blue. The island feels exceptionally lush after the spring rains, making the rice terraces of Ubud look like a living postcard.

- The Cotswolds, England - If you're looking for "pastoral perfection," June in the English countryside is unbeatable. This is the window when the famous lavender fields at Snowhill begin to purple and the rose gardens of honey-stoned villages are at their peak. The days are the longest of the year, providing nearly 17 hours of daylight to explore winding lanes and riverside pubs.

Whether you're chasing snowflakes or sunshine, Gail can design an itinerary that captures the magic of the season, effortless, elegant, and entirely your own.
